Door Open Alarm This alarm gently notifies you when the door is left ajar for over a minute, Dispenser Control Lock Prevents small children from operating or making adjustment It was cosmetically restored about five years ago but is unrestored electronically and does not play. This solid wood Mantle radio is one of very few in my collection that I cannot identify. I am pretty sure it dates between 19313 but it is not in my radio Radiomania catalogs and I cannot find photos of this model on the internet. The brass hardware and elaborate grill cutouts do not match other American Bosch radios I have seen. It is a heavy mantle radio made of solid light colored woodcherry perhaps with a dark stain. There is a ring of blond wood inlay framing the front. It was refinished using many light coats of Mohawk toner and then lacquer and rubbed to a deep gloss. It was a dark rustic and handsome radio when new and retains that look now. There are a few areasmost noticeably on the top right front edge where the wood had cracked a bit. They were well repaired and the repairs and refinish remain solid. I think the elaborate knobs are original. The nice brass name plate and dial frame are original and in good shape. I see no other Bosch radios that use these same handsome shields. The grill cloth is a well made replacement using an appropriate period design. The radio has never been powered up since I owned it. As the original cord needs replacement. The insides seem complete with the original cloth wiring and paper caps intact. It has never been restored. The chassis has light corrosion as can be seen from the photos.
